Hope everyone had a great summer!

The RDVF sure has. We attracted over 150 new members this year alone to our Foundation mission and have substantially increased our outreach through the rainbowvets.org website. The Board voted to re-invest our money with a financial institution which has resulted in some very positive growth.

We established two memorials in remembrance of the 42^{nd} Division for Operation Iraqi Freedom while relocating and maintaining some of our memorials in France.

We concluded the year with a well attended annual reunion where we made more plans to expand the Foundation's mission through the Center for

Family and Member Support, presented 20K in scholarship awards to 10 descendants of Rainbow soldiers and held a banquet that featured as speaker the Chief of the National Guard Bureau, General Frank J. Grass, who praised the Division's actions past and present. Best of all, we saw many of our comrades and their families! Next year promises to be even better.

After three years in Albany we are going to hold our 2015 annual reunion in the vicinity of the West Point Military Academy in August. We are going to put more emphasis on fun activities and comradeship while maintaining our charitable work. While plans are not complete our thoughts are to have a golf outing, a tour of the Academy and a day trip to the 9/11 Memorial Museum in NYC. The reunion will end with a scholarship awards dinner hopefully at the West Point Club.

Rainbowvets.org Website a Big Success!

The rainbowvets.org website has been a big factor in reaching out to our members and keeping them informed. When someone joins the RDVF they are actually making a statement that they support, supporting Rainbow Soldiers and their families past, present and future. When you joined you also established an account which enables us to stay in touch with you; however, if that information changes, email address, telephone number, etc., we lose touch with you. If that happens, we cannot send you information about things like, upcoming events or the current REVEILLE newsletter. When you visit the website, simply log in to your account and make sure it's up to date!

ELWYN DAVIS' MEMORY OF THE LIBERATION OF DACHAU

By Elwyn Davis, Btry B, 232nd Field Artillery, 42nd Infantry "Rainbow" Division WWII The twelfth in a series of speeches from 42nd Division WWII veterans requested by the "Friends of Former Dachau Prisoners" (FFDP), The Netherlands and coordinated by FFDP representative, Mr. Jaap Mesdag and Frank Burns, President, Pacific NW Chapter of the RDVF. Our shared project is continuing. Please contact Frank Burns for further information:

(206) 527-0987 frankdorothyburns@gmail.com This speech is under copyright to the FFDP and will also be published on their website in the near future. Photos are from Elwyn Davis.

I am Elwyn Davis, a World War II veteran. I am a longtime resident of a small town called Long Pine, Nebraska which is about 45 miles northwest of where I was born and raised on a small ranch in northern Nebraska. At that time our address was Duff, Nebraska. Like a lot of post offices back then, which were located several miles from a regular town, it consisted of only a small general store with the post office in the same building as well as having a gas pump. It was located south of Bassett, Nebraska, a small town of about 1000 people. My folks moved to town because of sickness. I worked on a neighboring ranch until it was time to start high school. I rode my horse to town 35 miles.

I spent seventeen weeks at Camp Roberts, California before I was sent to Camp Gruber, Oklahoma for training in 1944. Serving as Private First Class, I went into the 42nd Rainbow Division. I served in France, Germany and Austria. I was in the 232nd FA (Field Artillery) at Dachau concentration camp on April 29, 1945. I had a friend in the 232nd Infantry who was a Captain. We found out years later that we were there at the same time. My friend's orders were to run by the main gate to see if they could draw fire. They had the 232nd FA go in by the back gate. I was in Battery B. We unhooked the 105's from the trucks and left three men with each 105. The 405's which were bigger, were behind us. I think there were four trucks with six men in each truck who came from what we called the back gate. The first thing we noticed when we got there was everything was so nice and green. But after we found out that the ashes from the ovens were used for the fertilizer to make it so beautiful, we felt very bad about what happened. We were not there very long, just long enough to make sure there were no German soldiers left. We left so the medical detachment could get in to care for the prisoners. I saw the ovens and the dead bodies. The Germans had let some of the prisoners plant a small garden. They (the prisoners) were pulling up their vegetables and giving them to us. It was their most prized possession.

Later on, after the war was over, I got to go to Paris, France with a buddy of mine. Some of the French Army met us and showed us around. One of the soldiers said he had seen me before. I told him that I didn't think so. He said, "Do you remember getting some vegetables out of a garden? I was one of them!" He had gone back to the French Army. He gave me his rifle bayonet. I still have it. I also have a swastika flag that I took out of Hitler's house.

After leaving France, I spent time in Salzburg, Austria guarding prison camps. Coming home on the train, somewhere between New York and Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, I could see a windmill and a small stock tank with cattle around it from my window. I stood up and looked at it as long as I could until it was out of sight. I didn't realize how much I missed home and how homesick it made me feel. When I got out of the Army, I worked on a ranch. I lost my wife in 2005. I'm in a wheelchair and oxygen now. I have just recently been presented my 60 year American Legion membership pin on March 12, 2014 at the Long Pine American Legion Post #260. I joined the Legion after returning home to Bassett in 1946 because "it was just the thing to do." Several years later, I attempted to transfer my membership. It was then I discovered that my name wasn't on the books, even though I had been issued a membership card. My membership then started over, which accounts for the difference in dates. I have served as Post Commander many times, as well as a variety of other leadership positions within the local organization.

I'm glad that I live in a free country.

A NOTE TO DACHAU LIBERATORS AND THEIR FAMILIES AND DESCENDANTS From Mr. Jaap Mesdag -

We're looking for WWII personal objects that relate to the liberation of Dachau that could be loaned to us for a display at the exhibition in the Verzetsmuseum (Museum of the National Resistance Against the Nazis). If such an item will lead to a "speech" from a proud relative, 2nd or 3rd generation, this may begin a new series in our project of collecting Dachau Speeches! The format might be: the object for exhibition, to which veteran it belonged, how this veteran was involved in the liberation of Dachau, how did he fare after the war and why does the relative who brings in the object on loan think it is important that the liberation of Dachau and the stories of the prisoners and their liberators should be remembered. This could lead to another exhibition with the stories of the former prisoners from the Namen statt Nummern (names instead of numbers) project since their biographies are written by high school students. Jaap Mesdag, representative of Friends of Former Dachau Prisoners, The Netherlands

NATIONAL GUARD 4-STAR GENERAL PRAISES 42ND DIVISION

GENERAL FRANK J. GRASS, the 27th Chief of the National Guard Bureau, attended the RDVF Banquet in honor of the 10th Anniversary of the Division's mobilization and deployment to Iraq. General Grass praised the Division for its performance in Iraq and described all the challenges they had to overcome. The Division HQ received the Meritorious Unit Citation for its outstanding service in Iraq in 2006. The General went on to say how the Division has a distinguished past and rich history and how well the current Division is living up to that with its readiness to serve in the homeland or abroad. General Grass met with many of our soldiers, past and present.

RDVF RECOGNIZES LONG AND FAITHFUL SERVICE

The RDVF Board of Trustees established a recognition award for those individuals that have served the Foundation in positions of responsibility for many years. In this our inaugural year we recognized seven outstanding servants to our Foundation. Dee and Barbara Eberhart, Dick Tisch, Harold Melinek, James "Pete" Pettus, Jim Clemons and Esther Peirce. They all received the RDVF Medallion for Long and Faithful Service. There is not enough room in the REVEILLE to describe their contributions. We hope to establish a page on our website in the near future that will list this year's and future years' recipients' accomplishments as a way of continuing tribute to their service. RDVF ESTABLISHES IRAQ WAR MEMORIALS

They are done! The RDVF dedicated two new memorials in commemoration of the 42nd Division mobilization and deployment in 2004. This year marked the 10th anniversary of the deployment. The Fort Drum dedication was conducted on June 28th and the Fort Dix dedication was recently concluded on September 14th. Fort Drum and Fort Dix were the mobilization sites and where the Division trained in preparation for their mission in Iraq. Foundation Chairman Joe Taluto thanked all those who worked so hard to bring about the memorials and those that donated to defray expenses. The RDVF raised over ten thousand dollars in support of establishing the Memorials. Taluto also stated, "That the outstanding performance of the HQ 42nd Division members in Iraq was validated by the award of the Meritorious Unit Citation. These memorials are a testament to your courage, sacrifice and commitment to serve. They are your memorials now and forever."

I will continue to tell the stories my grandfather told me about his days in Alsace-Lorraine and the people he encountered and affected in his days there.

OVER THE RAINBOW in the CRADLE OF AVIATION By RDVF Historian, Patrick Chaisson

In 1917, Camp Mills was a sprawling, brawling tent city. Located near the New York City port of embarkation, it housed thousands of American "doughboys" bound for duty in the trenches of World War I. Among them were 27,000 National Guard soldiers from 26 states and the District of Columbia, destined to become the famous 42nd "Rainbow" Division.

Today, the Rainbow Division's birthplace has been swallowed up by the residential community of Garden City, Long Island. All that remains of Camp Mills is a 17-foot tall shaft of Minnesota granite, erected by Rainbow veterans in 1941 as a monument to their fallen comrades.

Progress has also obliterated several other historicallysignificant sites on Long Island. Roosevelt Field, where Charles Lindbergh took off on his 1927 solo transatlantic flight to France, is now a shopping mall. The nearby Nassau Coliseum now stands on what was once Mitchel Field, an important World War II air defense base.

A new museum on Mitchel Field interprets Long Island's nearly-forgotten role as "The Cradle of Aviation". Many aircraft manufacturers had factories here, and their names are undoubtedly familiar to Rainbow Division veterans.

For over 70 years, the Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corporation in Bethpage made sturdy "cat" fighters for the Navy. Other familiar names in Long Island aviation include the Brewster Aeronautical Corporation of Long Island City and Sikorsky Aircraft, which constructed helicopters in Hempstead.

World War II-era Rainbowmen recall the rugged P-47 Thunderbolt fighter-bomber, built by the thousands in Republic Aviation's factory at Farmingdale. Republic also designed the A-10 Warthog, so often seen overhead during the 42nd Infantry Division's 2005 deployment to Iraq.

The Rainbow has played an important part in Long Island's aviation history as well. For nearly sixty years 42nd aircrews have flown out of Ronkonkoma's MacArthur Airport, appropriately named for General of the Army (and Rainbow Division combat veteran) Douglas MacArthur.

Flight operations there began in 1959, when the 42nd Aviation Company stood up. Equipped with fixed-wing L-19 Bird Dog(1st Photo) observation aircraft, the unit kept its administrative headquarters at the Huntington Station armory. Four years later it reorganized, growing into the 42nd Aviation Battalion. Moving its HQs to a larger facility at Freeport, the 42nd AVN BN's fleet now included O-1A and U-6 Beaver utility planes.

New technologies brought rotary-winged aircraft to the 42nd Aviation Battalion's Long Island home. By 1968 the unit was flying OH-13 Sioux and OH-23 Raven helicopters. These models were eventually replaced by more modern UH-1 Huey, (2nd photo) OH-6 Cayuse (3rd photo) and AH-1 Cobra aircraft.

Air cavalry troops from the 1st Squadron 101st Cavalry, also a 42nd Infantry Division organization, operated for many years from Ronkonkoma's MacArthur Airport.

Army aviation on Long Island took a giant stride forward in 1986 when the Aviation Brigade, 42nd Infantry Division, was formed. Headquartered at Patchogue, this unit stood ready as the Rainbow's "Sunday Punch" if it was ever called to war.

When the 42ID mobilized for Operation Iraqi Freedom in 2004, its Aviation Brigade deployed as well. The unit, commanding Active Component, Army Reserve and National Guard soldiers from across the country, established an enviable record for mission-accomplishment during nine months of intense combat operations.

Another reorganization brought the 3-142 Assault Aviation Battalion and its UH-60 Blackhawk (photo left) utility helicopters to Long Island in 2006. This outfit later deployed to Iraq, as well as for numerous state active duty missions such the Superstorm Sandy relief effort.

Long Island, so rich in both Rainbow Division and aviation history, still echoes with the distinctive sound of Army helicopters flying out on missions somewhere "Over the Rainbow".

RAINBOW STORIES OF THE OCCUPATION AUSTRIA 1945-1946

We begin a new series, with an anecdote as told to Mrs. Mary Lou McCahey, wife of Major James B. McCahey, Jr., senior aide to 42nd Division Commander, MG Harry J. Collins through WWII and during the 42nd Division Occupation in Salzburg, Austria 1945-1946.

Portrait of Major McCahey

From "A Year of Progress/the Commanding General Reviews 42nd's Occupation Job in Austria" p. 7

"PW's, DEF's Are Screened and Guarded" – As southern German armies disintegrated they pulled back toward Austria. On May 5 Army Group "G" surrendered and with it were thousands of soldiers who had been forced by General Mark W. Clark's troops to retreat from Italy. Broken fragments of several Nazi armies congregated in Austria when the shooting stopped. Many were in hospitals, seriously wounded. These defeated troops had to be herded into PW enclosures. They had to be fed, given medical care, guarded. They had to be screened. War criminals, security threats (highranking Nazis, SS and SA leaders) had to be weeded out and placed in special camps. Then came the tedious, specialized task of more thorough screening for the purpose of discharging the ones who were eligible. They were questioned at length to determine occupational specialities, place of residence, dependency status, etc. Finally the U.S. forces began to return them to civilian life. Some who were discharged found the going tough outside and would return to the camps in a few days. They had to be handled again. In spite of these obstacles, 360,506 PWs were either evacuated or discharged by 15 March 1946. Still remaining in camps and hospitals are 19, 684."

The story, "Rainbow's Portrait of an Artist"
At the end of the war, when the 42nd settled in Salzburg, our Army had no way to know who was who among the many refugees who settled there. All people were put in jail and were taken out one at a time to be interviewed by different members of the 42nd Division to determine what each person could do. If carpentry, they were put to work repairing damaged buildings; if they had bakery experience, they were set up in a bakery to make bread and other foods for all in the town. Housekeepers were required to host Army personnel in their own homes and others were similarly placed in the jobs they knew best.

One of the women whom my husband Jim himself interviewed told Jim that she had walked from Russia hoping to find a safe place in which to settle. The only talent she had was as an artist but, she said, she had no paint or canvas, etc. At that time, Jim's father was president of the Chicago School Board. Jim asked that his dad send paint, brushes, canvasses and any other equipment a portrait artist would need. When all arrived, she was thrilled and as a "thank you", she painted the wonderful portrait that I have in my home today.

As different dignitaries came to Salzburg to see how "their people" were being handled, she was asked to do a small 12" x 12" painting of them as a gift from the 42nd Division.

Billy Rose, American impresario, theatrical showman and lyricist, was among those dignitaries. She was paid by the Army for these works and slowly she became self supporting.

This artist signed her painting, T. Thom.

WWII MAJOR GENERAL HARRY J. COLLINS – HONORARY CITIZEN OF SALZBURG, AUSTRIA From Hilbert and Howard Margol, WWII Rainbowmen

could occupy the most prominent site just inside the main entrance gate. On March 19, 2014, at the invitation of George L. Bevington, Academic Dean at The Walker School, Marietta, Georgia, Howard and Hilbert spoke to the student body of the school, relating their 42nd Division experiences during WW2.

On April 11, 2014, George advised the Margol brothers that he had just returned from a trip to Austria, Germany, and Switzerland with a group of students. While in the Salzburg area, St. Peter's Cemetery was a stop on their tour and it was a coincidence that they found General Collins's grave. They remembered that in their presentation, the Margol twins had remarked about General Collins and that his nickname was, "Hollywood Harry". The tour director and guide explained that "Ehrenburger" meant "honorary citizen" and that it was quite prestigious to be buried in St. Peter's Cemetery. They could only wonder what the series of letters on the tombstone stood for. We were able to provide answers for George and his students. At war's end in Europe, the 42nd Division moved into Austria as occupying forces. General Collins was appointed the Military Governor of a major portion of Austria. A niece of an Archbishop, Irene Gehmacher, became the General's secretary during the Occupation. They later married. General Collins made it known that upon his death, he wanted to be buried in Salzburg. The series of letters read "CG"--Comanding General, "DSM"--Distinguished Service Medal, "SS"--Silver Star, "BSM"--Bronze Star Medal, and ARCOM--Army Commendation Medal. General Collins died 3-8-63 at the age of 67. Top Photo: 1968 - Howard Margol on Right; Hilbert Margol on Left Above Right, photo: taken by George L. Bevington on 2014 visit

"HOLLYWOOD" IN THE ALPS

(from the memoirs of Col. Edwin Rusteberg, H1B-242, who served as Chief of Staff to MG Harry J. Collins in postwar Salzburg, Austria)

As the war clouds disappeared and peace reigned once more in Europe, the city of Mozart and "The Sound of Music" — Salzburg, Austria, became alive again with the celebrities of the day. It was at the Festspiel Haus, the music center of Salzburg, that I sat one evening with the General and his Staff of Zone Command Austria, to hear Grace Moore sing. She had acquired great fame before the war as the star in "One Night of Love", which Mom and I had enjoyed seeing in our neighborhood years before. Gathering at the General's villa in Salzburg, after the performance, to meet the primadonna, and for a late dinner with her, as we heard the approaching footsteps of our host and guest we overheard the General say: "Come out here on the balcony, Sugar, and meet my staff!!" Handsome, "Hollywood Harry", as General Harry

In 1968, Howard and Hilbert Margol, former soldiers in 392nd Field Artillery--Btry. B--42nd Rainbow Division, visited the grave site of former Division Commander, Major General Harry J. Collins, located in St. Peter's Cemetery, Salzburg, Austria.

We were advised that a former Austrian Ruler's remains had been exhumed and relocated in order that General Collins'remains

Collins was known, was right at home with his famous guest from the glittering capital of his namesake city! Altho the evening was an exciting and pleasant one with our famous and enchanting guest, our spirits were sombered a short time later with the news of her death in a plane crash in Northern Europe. We felt fortunate tho of having had the pleasure of hearing this "Hollywood" Star in song and meeting her personally at "Hollywood" Harry's informal gathering at his villa. It had been a night to remember as "Hollywood in the Alps!!!" photo - Major General Harry Collins circa 1945-46, (from the personal photo album of Major J.B. McCahey, 42D Div HQ, Senior Aide to MG Collins, sent by Mrs. Mary Lou McCahey)

WORLD WAR I RAINBOW DIVISION DESCENDANTS SOUGHT

grandchild, nephew or cousin of a World War I member of the Second Battalion (Companies D, E and F), 117th Engineer Regiment,42nd (Rainbow) Infantry Division? I am, my father being 1st Sergeant Arthur C "Top" Davis, F Company. Some questions have arisen about the safety, integrity and care of the Memorial Monument and the grounds surrounding

it in Rainbow Memorial

Are you the child,

grandchild, great

Grove in Exposition Park in Los Angeles, California. There has been some thought expressed that the site should be abandoned and the Memorial Monument relocated to a safer place. Your thoughts, comments, questions and suggestions on such a move will be greatly appreciated. It should be mentioned here that such a move may not be possible for several reasons. Please contact me at your early convenience. Aloha from Maui

NEW FOCUS for The Center for Family and Member Support By Susan Taluto, Co-Chair, CFMS

The Center for Family and Member Support held a meeting in Albany New York during this year's annual Foundation Reunion and Conference. Attending were Co-Chairmen Collette Wickstrom and Susan Taluto, John Wilsey, RDVF Trustee, Events Chairman and Director of the New York State Family Programs in the Division of Military and Naval Affairs, Jenn Tabankin, Family Assistance Specialist in the New York State Family Programs Office, and Linda Owen, Past National President of the RDVF Auxiliary. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss strategies to address a core mission of the Center, outreach and communication with the current soldiers and families of the 42nd Infantry, "Rainbow" Division.

It was determined that the Center must continue to develop its relationship with the NYS Family Programs Office and thru that relationship, network with Division units in other States. Mr. Willsey agreed to facilitate this effort. Other ideas that the meeting generated were to write a letter introducing the Center which could be handed out at unit events, designing a poster with RDVF information to be posted in Armories, sponsoring tuitions for children such as summer camps, music camps, or child care, perhaps as an extension of our current scholarship program, and the development of a 42nd ID "Family of the Year" award for soldiers of the rank of E6 and below. All of these ideas require further development and strategies for funding.

One action item was presented to the Board of Trustees for approval at a subsequent meeting. The Board approved the development of a Facebook page for the Center for Family and Member Support. We are currently seeking an intern to do the design and inauguration of the Facebook page and to assist in its maintenance. Our initial efforts will focus on seeking a current 42nd ID soldier to work with us on this project. Since social media are favored tools for today's communication, we hope to reach this younger population and educate them about the benefits of supporting the Foundation and the legacy of the Rainbow Division.

A Letter to the RDVF From 2014 Rainbow Scholar, I am honored and grateful to have been awarded Jacob Deal the Ted Simonson scholarship from the Rainbow Division Veterans Foundation. My family and I are very impressed that the Foundation supports such a generous scholarship program and I am honored to be selected as a recipient. I am sorry that I was unable to attend the awards ceremony in person. I would like to thank the selection committee and the entire RDVF for their support. I would especially like to thank Colonel Tammy Mandwelle (retired) for her sponsorship of my application and for her loving presence in my life. I am now attending Northeastern University in Boston, where I am studying chemistry. I look forward to comparing notes with Colonel Mandwelle, who served as division chemical officer and is a high school chemistry teacher in civilian life. I am particularly pleased to have been awarded the specific scholarship funded in memory of Mr. Simonson. Thanks to the wonders of Google, I have learned that Mr. Simonson, like me, was a trombone player. I look forward to continuing this aspect of his memory through my participation in the Northeastern Pep Band. As a teacher and school administrator, Mr. Simonson knew the value of higher education, and I am sure that this was a pivotal factor in the establishment of the RDVF scholarship in his honor. It is an honor to thank the Rainbow Division Veterans Foundation for their generous support.
